

Plans Released For Student Union Building

This is an architect's conception of what the Student Union Building will look like when completed. This is a view looking north. It shows the south side of the building as it will appear from the athletic field. The new building will be attached to the gym, as shown in the left part of this drawing. The present road which runs behind the gym is to be closed, and relocated in front of the gym — in the foreground of this drawing. The area around the site is already being cleared, and the official ground breaking ceremonies were held Wednesday. Completion date for the building, which will house a new cafeteria, and offices, is next November.

Seven Man Governing Board Elected by Freshman Class

The Freshman class elected their governing board on Wednesday, October 22. This Board will guide them until the regular elections in December. Nominations were held, followed by the voting for the seven members.

John H. Dugan, a graduate of Loyola High School, compiled the greatest number of votes. A pre-medical student, John is a candidate for the swimming team and a member of the Classics Academy and Debating Society.

Thomas Duffy received the second highest number of votes. A chemistry major, Tom is also a graduate of Loyola High School.

A Calvert Hall alumnus, Anthony Marzullo was third in the balloting. Tony is a member of the Pershing Rifles.

John Dugan

Another pre-medical student from Loyola High, Dave Mulrooney was fourth.

John Valentini, a graduate of Calvert Hall, was fifth. A chemistry major, John is active in the Chemistry Club and is a writer for the Greyhound.

Mike Abromaitis, a political science student from Loyola High, was sixth. Mike is a member of the cross country team, Pershing Rifles, and Debating Society.

George Shehan was a close seventh. An English major from Loyola High, George is a candidate for the Sodality.

Fifty-seven out of approximately 200 members of the Freshman class were present for the meeting.

Television Series Considers Quintilian, Augustine, Aquinas

By J. G. PREIS, JR.

"Great Books in Education," on the air for the third time in its ten Sunday series, was presented by WJZ-TV on October 19 at 12:30 P.M. The panel members, Sister M. Cleophas R.S.M. of Mt. St. Agnes College, Dr. P. Edward Kaltenbach of Loyola College, and Mr. John Carter Williams of Goucher College considered the book Institutes of Oratory by Quintilian. Rev. John E. Wise, the organizer of the program, questioned the guests on their evaluation of the book.

On the 26th of October Dr. Robert W. Daly of the United States Naval Academy, Dr. A. Leonard Slafkowsky, formerly of St. Johns College, Annapolis, and Dr. Richard H. Green of Johns Hopkins weighed the merits of two books by famous Catholic authors. These works were On Christian Doctrine by St. Augustine and Concerning the Teacher by St. Thomas Aquinas.

This week, the book for discussion will be the Jesuit Ratio Studiorum. Along with Dr. Harry W. Kirwin of Loyola College, two Johns Hopkins University professors, Dr. Clara P. McMahon and Dr. John Walton will be present on the panel.

The texts of the works to be discussed are usually available in paper backs or other economical editions. Questions may be sent in ahead of time with a request that they be presented on the panel.

Mixer Tonight

Mary Dwyer, of Villa Julie Junior College, and Jim Kelly, of Loyola, discuss plans for the mixer to be held this evening at Villa Julie. Loyola College students are officially invited to this mixer. Villa Julie is located on Valley Road, near the Green Spring Inn.

Fr. Joseph d'In villiers Celebrates 25th. Anniversary of Ordination

This year marks the 25th anniversary of the ordination of Father d'In villiers, S.J. On Saturday, October 11, a dinner was given in his honor in the faculty house. Since a Jesuit is not ordained until the completion of a long training, twenty five years of service is a achievement respected by all.

Attending the dinner were many friends and former classmates of Fr. d'In villiers, and the entire community of Evergreen. The ordination class of '33 contains many well-known men, of whom two are nationally prominent figures, Rev. John Courtney Murray, S.J., and Rev. Gustave Weigel, S.J. Both were present and spoke briefly. Fr. Harley, S.J., a former biology teacher at Loyola College, also attended.

Entertainment was provided by songs and stories reminiscent of the past. Memories were recalled by the accounts of seminary experiences.

During the years at Loyola College, Father d'In villiers has applied himself to many varied jobs. Today his time is consumed by the task of teaching Philosophy and Theology to the Juniors. As a supplement he still conducts many outside retreats. When Father d'In villiers can snatch a few moments of relaxation, he usually heads for Mount Pleasant.

Father Joseph d'In villiers, former Dean of Studies at Loyola College, recently celebrated his 25th anniversary of ordination.

John E. Hardy Lectures Here

"Ernest Hemingway" was the topic of the recent Gorman Lecture, the second of the current academic year. The lecture was given in Millbrook House on Tuesday, October 28, at 11:00 A.M. by Dr. John Edward Hardy, Associate Professor of English at Notre Dame University.

Dr. Hardy has also taught at the University of Detroit, Yale, Oklahoma, and Johns Hopkins University.

Having creative writing, modern fiction, and modern poetry as his fields of specialization, Dr. Hardy has written various essays, poems, and reviews which have been published in such periodicals as Sewanee Review, Kenyon Review, and Hopkins Review. In 1954 he was awarded the Sewanee Review Fellowship in Poetry. His first collected volume of verse, entitled Certain Poems, was published earlier this month. He is also the co-author, with Cleanth Brooks, of a volume entitled Poems of Mr. John Milton.

Editorials

The Whole Man

Loyola College has in the past and will in the future produce first scholars. Besides, each and every graduate has been, and will continue to be well educated in the liberal arts. In the field of science Loyola turns out men well-prepared to continue theoretical or applied studies. The new engineering-physics course, for example, has already borne fruit in the form of Bodie Finnerty and Al Simon, both of whom are currently continuing studies on fellowships. The same has been true of the other curricula. In fact, the entire scholastic picture is very bright.

Looking at the co-curricular scene, however, we find a somewhat different situation. Granted, Loyola has many varied activities, and granted, a few students take full advantage of these activities by participating wholeheartedly in one or several. But the most disappointing aspect of Loyola College is the woeful lack of the vast majority of the students to help themselves and their school by joining an activity. It is possible that there is an instance of a student who, for some reason, cannot participate in co-curriculars — but it's not probable.

Activities are educational, rewarding and enjoyable. Lets not let our clubs wither on the vine. Inject new life: join up now.

Spiritual Exercise

If a student were to ask himself "What am I supposed to be?" I would like to suggest a few answers. He should be a solidly religious person who loves God, whose intellect is clear and whose will is strong as a result of his making the most of his opportunities to acquire the grace of our Lord through consistent prayers and frequent approaches to the Sacraments. From this characteristic flows all the others. He is clean, neat, mannerly, and courteous because he is conscious of his dignity as a son of God. He has a genuine unselfish interest in the welfare of others. His sole criterion is not, "what's in it for me." He is mature, balanced, never hyper-critical because he realizes there are practically always two sides to every story and that he himself is not perfect. His conduct on and off the campus reflects his spirituality and earnestness of purpose and as such the College is always proud of him as a gentleman.

This manner of life should not be that of striving to win the favor of College administrators, teachers, or any other human being. The motive is found in St. Ignatius' meditation called "The First Principle and Foundation." The central theme of the meditation reads, "I came from God; I belong to God; I am destined for God."

— President's Message, Canisius College, Fall 1958

Saints and Saints

There seem to be two kinds of saints. One kind goes and sets the world on fire because it needs to be done and the other does some small job with heroic diligence. October 30 we honored one of the second kind.

Alphonsus Rodriguez was a Jesuit brother who spent most of his adult life answering the door bell. This hardly sounds like the occupation of a saint but sanctity consists in the how and why rather than the what.

We are all eligible for this sort of sanctity. All it requires is that we always do our job to the best of our ability. This is very simple. To constantly remember that we are responsible for all our actions no matter how inconsequential they seem; to give our full attention every second of the day: as if our life depended on it and our immortal life does.

The Kitchen Cynic

BY JIM MOLLOY

Back in the seventeenth cen-tury, there was an alchemist's ap-prentice by the name of Izaac Newton. It is easy to see that there was no promise in this lad, for he could not even spell his own name. Now Ike's master always used to say, "Ike, you will get no where by sitting in the orchard watching apples fall."

One day as Ike sat watching the apples fall and trying to stack them, a couple of the local delinquents picked on him, calling him crazy. This was another early manifestation of anti-intellectual-ism. Ike was getting the worst of it for every time he missed someone, his body had an irresis-tible tendency to follow his fist and he landed on his face.

A wandering minstrel happened along and dispersed the ruffians singlehandedly.

"Thank you sir, "said Ike" I could not have done it without you."

"It was nothing lad," quipped the minstrel, "But how did it all begin?"

"Well," replied Ike, "I was sit-ting here watching the apples fall and wondering why, and ponder-ing why I could not stack them when these people started calling me a dirty egghead. Every time that I swung and missed, however, I landed on my face."

"Is that all of your trouble boy?" said the stranger," Apples always fall because they are easier to reach that way, and you can't stack them because they are all different. Also, if you don't stick out your foot you will always fall on your face."

"Thank you very much," said Ike" What do they call you, for I want to name one of my laws after you?"

"Grav O'Tighe", said the min-strel.

And that is how newton dis-covered the law of gravity (I said that he could not spell); the be-ginnings of differential calculus Sanskrit for apples are different and Newton's first law of motion, "Always step on your opponent's foot when you go to pound him and you will not miss." and from this is derived the concept of the foot pound.

the Watchdog

BY JERRY DYER

As the lovely Indian summer disappears, and the ominous quarter marks loom ever nearer, the Hounddog has seen fit to re-cord these bits of campus life and legend.

How many have noticed the number of juniors, newly freed of ROTC, who still shift books from right arm to left in order to sa-lute approaching officers?

And what freshman fainted at drill on the unusually warm day of Oct. 8th? Looks like the pro-gram gets rougher every year.

Congratulations to Joe O'Hara, on his engagement to lovely Marge Wiedefeld.

Signs of the Season: Mike (ANZAC) Garret, winging arrows at a tree behind which crouched one Andy "Shoot 'em" Garreis. Tom Carey, outcast of the Pea-body, recently seen on a tour of such South Broadway establish-ments as "Augie's", "John's" and "Ed's". His purpose seems to have been sociological research.

Meanwhile, unbeknownst to the underworld, our plant in Fr. Mur-phy's office has informed us that the Junior Class Treasurer has thrice been apprehended operating a floating pinochle game here-abouts. Wonder when was the last time anyone checked the treas-ury?

The Caper of the season, so far this year, goes to the boys of the Sodality. Seems that they staged a mixer in Cohn Hall early in October. Apparently the mixer was well publicized at various girls' schools, because the girls at this exclusive affair outnumbered the boys 3 to 1. Nice?

Anyway, why don't they put up a sign in the cafeteria, "Eat here, 1,000,000 flies can't be wrong."

Not that we really care, but whatever happened to a beard growing contest, to be initiated by Frank Lancelotta and James Mol-loy.

Dear Sir:

It would take every column in this newspaper to express the gratitude I feel for those who did so much for Freshman Orientation and the Freshman Welcome Dance. From all reports both affairs were tremendous successes and this is largely due to the un-flagging efforts of so many stu-dents.

I realize that "THANKS" is a very small reward for such hard work but for whatever it is worth "THANKS A MILLION".

Richard M. Prodey
Sophomore President

Dear Sir:

In a recent issue of your paper, you stated that the contract for the construction of the projected Student Union Building had been granted. I am certain that this news was received joyfully by most of the students on campus.

You also mentioned that the building was to be erected on the location of the junior parking lot without explaining the reasons for its relocation. Thus, you have de-nied a fact stated in your paper last year, in which you placed the Student Union Building at the op-posite end of the Gymnasium. Don't you feel that an explana-tion of this change is in order? I do.

It is apparent that this new lo-cation is not nearly as convenient as is the old one. Locating the cafeteria in a place isolated from the classroom buildings is an ex-ample of poor planning. This is especially true when we consider that this building will serve night as well as day school students. Thus Sir, you have informed us of the relocation of this campus fa-cility without giving one reason for its relocation.

Letters to the Editor

Dear Sir:

The death of Pope Pius XII has brought forth expressions of sin-cere grief from practically all sec-tions and peoples of the earth. It is to be noted that this is especially true of the world Jewry, for there was not a ruler of our generation who did more to help the Jews in their time of greatest need and anguish, than the late Pope.

History confirms the rescue of thousands of Jewish Nazi victims, an act which must be considered one of the greatest manifestations of humanitarianism of our cen-tury. Specific instances are many. The Vatican, considered neutral territory by international law, threw open its doors to any Jew who could reach it. Protective passports were freely issued to Jews threatened by Nazis. Catho-lic monasteries and convents throughout Europe became hiding places for entire Jewish families. Courageous Encyclicals, Pastoral Letters, and sermons, many issued by the Pope himself, denounced Nazi persecution and filled Jews with hope throughout their most difficult days.

Thus Pope Pius XII, a great leader of Christianity, not only preached Christianity, but prac-ticed it, setting an example with his acts and with his life.

15% Of School Make Dean's List

Loyola Associates Tour Campus

Gain Of Twenty Students Over Previous Semester

Graduates Lead List With 32; 56 Science Majors Included

Each semester the Dean of Studies compiles the marks of all his students, and publishes his own honor roll. This list is composed of those students attaining a grade of "B" or higher in every subject.

In previous years the term of "Seven-Percenter" has been derisively applied to the members of this roll. Times, it seems, have changed, and so must the name. This past semester was a banner one for Father Hoggson, as a record high of 102 students found the energy, sweat, and toil to burn their names on his muster sheet.

The semester ending May 29, 1958 found 20 students enrolled in Business courses with all marks over "B". The Social Science majors produced 21 of their number. The largest group represented was the B.S. Science majors, who found half of the total list among their ranks. One-fourth of all A.B.'s in the school made the list which follows:

'58 Graduates

A.B.: John Frese;

B.S. SOCIAL SCIENCE: Daniel Coyne, Donald Dodson, Earl Logue, Edward Slunt, William Ziegler.

B.S. BUSINESS: Vincent Cucina, Joseph Hock, Salvatore Marzullo, Bernard Roche.

Seniors

A.B.: Charles Fitzsimmons, Michael Kraus, John Oppelt, Ronald Ross.

B.S. SOCIAL SCIENCE: George Govatos, William Keck, James Kelly, Robert Lemmer, Hugh McKenna, John Synodinos, Daniel Thomas, Thomas Touhey.

B.S. BUSINESS: Paul Boerschel, George Hebner, William Neonberg, Guarino Puliafico, Donald Zeman.

Juniors

A.B.: Gerald Fogarty, Joseph Notorangelo, Michael Pelczar, Michael Plott.

B.S. SOCIAL SCIENCES: Paul Cawthorne, Gordon Hasenei, Michael McDonough, Thomas Murn, Michael Schmidtman, Geoge Schulmeyer, Henry Weigand.

B.S. SCIENCE: Joseph Brocato, Deminic Culotta, Gerald Daly, Thomas Dwyer, Douglas McCulloh, Joseph O'Hara Jeffrey Stiffman.

B.S. BUSINESS: Donald Budenbohn, James Hinkle, Thomas Hitselberger, Errol Phillips, Henry Reinhardt, Ray Weinstein.

Sophomores

A.B.: Walter Truskowski.

B.S. SOCIAL SCIENCE: David Pardee.

B.S. SCIENCE: Robert Goldsmith, Timothy Gray, Anthony Hughes, John Jordan, James Olson, Charles Parr, Mitsie Stasiowski, Donald Torres.

B.S. BUSINESS: John Conner, Joseph Curran, Earl Magenhofer, Stanford Matz, Lawrence Sturm.

Soph Bill Baird explains the use of S-210 in the field of science matters to an interested assemblage of visiting parents, on October 19.

Purpose Given By Fr. Lawler

The pages of Loyola's history were unfolded and many of her human interest stories were unearthed as a group of her students disclosed myriads of facts to their inquisitive audiences. In groups of 20 to 30, the parents, students, and friends of Loyola walked through the new-fallen leaves, scanning the college's points of interest. The purpose of this tour, in the words of Rev. Daniel F. Lawler, S.J., Faculty Moderator of The Loyola College Associates, was "to give the parents an idea of what the Loyola campus is like, before graduation day."

The Loyola College Associates, presided over by Mr. J. Kenneth Healy, is an organization of the fathers of Loyola students. Not too well known around campus, it is one of the most influential bodies, however. The Associates is the organization which also sponsors Career Day, to be held this year on Nov. 12.

Jerome Frese Attends Graduate School At U. Of Iowa On Teaching Fellowship

As one of its students this year, the University of Iowa has enrolled a recent alumnus of Loyola, John Jerome Frese. Graduating summa cum laude, Jerry moved to the University of Iowa to do graduate work in English and creative writing. He is there as a Woodrow Wilson Fellow, one of the 1,000 prospective college teachers in the United States and Canada in graduate school this fall on Woodrow Wilson Fellowships.

Here at Loyola formerly GREYHOUND staffer Frese was one of the most active men on campus. A frequent contributor to the Evergreen Quarterly, he was on the editorial board his last three years here. Relying on a good gift of speech, Jerry was a prominent member of the Robert Bellarmine Debating Society, being president in his junior year. He was also a member of Tau Kappa Alpha, (national forensic honor society), and vice-president of its Loyola chapter. Jerry also made his mark as a player in the Mask and Raper Society, performing in productions here and at neighboring schools.

John Jerome Frese

He holds membership in several honor fraternities, namely, Lambda Iota Tau (Literature), Eta Sigma Phi (classics), Alpha Sigma Nu (Jesuit scholastic), serving as president of the Loyola chapter of the latter.

To show that his talent was not one-sided, Jerry sparkled as an outstanding member of Bill McElroy's harrier and track teams, earning varsity letters in each, thus entitling him to membership in the Block L Club. These varied activities resulted in him being listed in "Who's Who in American Colleges and Universities."

General Tire Announces Highway Safety Contest

To create a greater awareness of the need for increased driving care, The General Tire & Rubber Company of Akron, Ohio, has announced that it will award scholarships to twenty college or high school students who give, in 250 words or less, the best answers or suggestions to the question: "What can be done to assure greater highway safety?" In announcing General's Highway Safety Contest, Mr. William O'Neill, the president, said, "The subject is all inclusive. It can cover what a community, an individual, or new laws might do . . . or any ideas conceived that will help cut down highway or city traffic accidents."

First prize is $1,000; second is $900; third, $850; fourth, $800; fifth, $750; winners of the last six prizes receive 200 each. Any student attending a high school or accredited college in the U.S.A., except children of employees of the General Tire & Rubber Company, its dealers or agencies, is eligible to enter the contest.

Entries will be accepted until December 1, 1958. All entries should be addressed to The College Scholarship Contest, The General Tire & Rubber Company, 1708 Englewood Avenue, Akron 9, Ohio. No one can be declared a winner without the approval of his school faculty. Winners will be notified by mail on or before January 1, 1959.

Poetry Contest

The American College Poetry Society has announced that an anthology of outstanding poetry composed by students in American and Canadian colleges is being prepared for publication this winter.

This is an opportunity for talented students to gain national recognition. The Society cannot compensate the students for the works published, nor can it acknowledge poetry not published. The student will retain all literary rights for his works, which may be on any subject. The poetry must, however, be original.

Address all entries to: Alan C. Fox, Executive Secretary, American College Poetry Society, Box 24463, Los Angeles 24, Cal., before midnight, December 1, 1958.

SPORTS

By BILL LOHNES, Sports Editor

Have you ever witnessed a cross-country meet? If you haven't, you're missing something.

Admittedly, cross-country isn't what you might call a pure spectator sport. The only two parts which the observer can see is the start and the finish. If you arrive late you find that you've missed half of the action.

Following a closely packed start, the competitors disappear out of sight and you don't see them again until 12 or 13 minutes later when the sweating and exhausted leaders begin to trickle into sight.

The final 400 yards which precedes the climatic finish often is the deciding phase in the contest. The winner usually is the man who has enough courage left to muster that big kick for his final home stretch drive.

Thus far Loyola has had that big kick. Kenny Billeb, Stack Burton, Paul Sherman have, as expected, been the key men in the Hound offense, while Lou Smith and Kenny Donahue have been two consistent scorers for firey coach Bill McElroy.

In their opening two encounters, the Harriers defeated what appears to be their strongest opposition in Catholic U. and Johns Hopkins by scores of 26-29 and 24-32, respectively. Billeb in placing second against C.U., legged out one of the best times of his collegiate career. He covered the 3 mile course in 16 minutes 50 seconds. Sherman won the Hopkins met in 17:04.

The squad's next skirmish will be against Washington on Nov. 5.

TANK TALK —Recently, in preparation for their upcoming season, the mermen were shaping up by running the cross-country course. As the natators began to stagger in, there was one, who on reaching the track, began to walk head down and bedraggled toward the finish. "Come on", bellowed coach Klarner, "don't walk." "I'm not walking" panted the bushed natator, "just running slow."

ODDS 'N' ENDS — Soccer coach Tommy Lind's baseball All-Stars defeated Oriole Bob Nieman's All-Stars 2 to 1 at Westport two weeks ago . . . The other voice along with Vince Bagli, who broadcasts the high school game of the week over WWIN, is junior John Jeppi.

Members of the defending Mason-Dixon swimming team wait their turn in sprint practice. Pete Powley is finishing his dash.

Basketball Squad Begins Practice; Seven To Return

The 1958-59 Loyola College Basketball team began workouts on October 15 in preparation for the coming season. This year's schedule calls for twenty-two games.

Coach "Lefty" Reitz looks forward to seven returning lettermen to carry the team through the upcoming season. Captain Gene Nieberlein returns for his second varsity season. Gene scored 250 points for an average of 10.4 per game last year. Joe O'Hara, a 6'5" junior, returns to take up his position under the boards. His field-goal percentage of .424 lead the team last year. Sophomore John Heagney returns to the backcourt after an outstanding rookie year. In fifteen games he scored 160 points. Sophomore Ed Murn at 6'4½" is an outstanding rebounder, but could also develop into a top scorer. Senior Ferd Ruppel is the team's best driver and is also one of the best ball handlers. Senior Don Deinlein returns to seek a berth in the backcourt. Mike Sneeringer also figures to do a lot of scoring for the Hounds.

Up from the "B" Squad, Dave Marshall, appears ready to be a big help. Junior Tom Gray, who averaged 15.6 per game for the "B" Squad will be battling for a job under the boards, while little Dave Carney at 5'8" will be trying to capture a position in the backcourt. Mike Rose, Bill Baird and John Howe round out the "B" Squad graduates.

Who Am I?

1. I was the only player to win the Baseball Most Valuable Player Award at two different positions.
2. I pitched two consecutive no hit, no-run games in 1939.
3. I was the last player to hit .400 in the major leagues.
4. I scored 63 points in a professional basketball game.
5. Playing my college ball at DePaul and professionally with the Minneapolis Lakers, I received the nickname of Mr. Basketball.
6. I was the star quarterback for the Los Angeles Rams in the 1940's and I am now married to Jane Russell.
7. I was a former heavyweight boxing champion and lost 30 straight wrestling matches.
8. I hit home-runs in my first two times at bat in a major league game.
9. I hit safely in 56 consecutive games in 1941.
10. I pitched the only opening day no-hitter in major league history.

R. M. Is Opposition In M-D Soccer Battle, Today

The Loyola College soccer team will meet Randolph-Macon today on the Yellow Jackets home field.

After losing two games in a row, the soccer team won its most impressive victory of the year by defeating Mount St. Mary's at Evergreen. Moon Mullen with three scores, and brother Cliff with two led the Greyhound attack as the entire squad saw action. Paul Dipino, senior co-captain, played an outstanding game in the goal making many fine saves.

In its third and fourth contests of the year, the team went down to defeat at the hands of Johns Hopkins and University of Baltimore, respectively. The game with the former was a good one as both defenses stood out. Late in the second half Hopkins All-American lacrosse midfielder Bruce Duffaneny booted home the winning goal, and the Hounds lost 1-0.

The game with B.U. wasn't as close, however, as the Bees scored in every period and had the game well under control from the start. Jerry Beck, Loyola's leading candidate for all-Mason-Dixon honors, scored the Green and Grey's only goal as B.U. was victorious 5-1.

Swimming Team Schedules Annual Intrasquad Meet

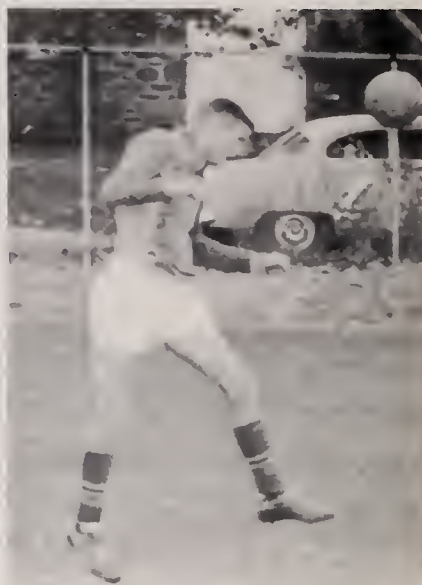

The annual "Green and Gray" swimming meet is being scheduled for the week of November 20. This aquatic contest pits one half of the varsity swimming team against the other half.

This will be the student body's first chance to see the '58-'59 team in action. A large turnout is expected at the met.

Tony Dorn and George Krapp, leading scorers on last years splash squad, are expected to lead the aquamen in another successful season.

Krapp is a consistent performer in the 50 and 100 yard freestyle and is the anchor man on the relay team, while Dorn, a graduate of Loyola High School, is touted as the top driver in the area. Not content with just using the springboard for accumulating points, he swims the breast stroke and aids the medley relay.

Other returning veterans to this year's squad include sprinters Pete and Seeley Powley, distance man Joe Harrington, backstroker and captain Mike Karpers, breast-stroker Paul Karpers, and butterflyer Bill Lohnes.

Intramural Items

Following a brief lapse due to Retreat and rain, the intramural program has swung into high gear.

The tennis tournament is rapidly coming to a close with Gillis and Chepaitis vieing for the championship of the winner's bracket of the double elimination tournament. The winner of this match will meet Pat Cullen for the honor. It will then be necessary for the best of the winner's bracket to engage the winner of the loser's bracket for the tennis championship.

Two big football games were played on October 24th. One pitted the Dodo's (Sr.) against the Houndog's (Sophs) with the Smirnoff's (Jrs.) taking on the winner of this contest. The other matches the Ramblers (Sr.) and the Mets (Jr.) with the Stomper's (Frosh.) meeting the winner of this contest. Then, the big game will be for the championship of the winner's bracket.

The second annual swimming tournament will be held, today.

Remember Jake Fisher?

Who was Jake Fisher? Fisher, an unorthodox power swimmer, established records in the 50 and 100 yard dash while being anchor man in the 400 yard relay at Loyola. During his last two years he led the Greyhound tankmen to two Mason-Dixon Championships. After graduation he coached the mermen for one year.

Where is Jake Fisher today? He is a successful builder and the chairman of the Swimming Committee of the Senior Block "L" which is an Alumni group.
